

Notes on Contributors

Hadi Akbari holds a PhD in teaching English as a foreign language and currently teaches general and medical English to medical students at North Khorasan University of Medical Sciences, Iran. He has published on English language learners' motivation and attitudes.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-0323-1245>

Contact details: Department of English and General Courses, Faculty of Medicine, North Khorasan University of Medical Sciences, Bojnurd, Iran (hadi.ha@gmail.com)

Giuseppe D'Orazi, PhD, is a teacher in Applied Linguistics and Italian studies in the School of Languages and Linguistics at the University of Melbourne. His PhD thesis focused on motivation and demotivation learning second languages at Australian universities. He has published on second language learning and teaching and second language learners' identity construction within the Australian sociocultural environment. He has participated in several international programs on second language learning and teaching such as: ERASMUS in Germany, Links into Languages of the British Council in the UK and Fulbright Foreign Language Teaching Assistant (FLTA) in the USA.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1647-3385>

Contact details: University of Melbourne, 22/26 Park Street, Footscray 3011, VIC, Australia (giuseppe.dorazzi@gmail.com)

Helga Dorner is Associate Professor and Director at the Institute of Research on Adult Education and Knowledge Management at the Faculty of Education and Psychology of Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE), Budapest, Hungary. She is also a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy. She researches teaching innovations, academic professionalism and mentoring for teaching in higher education.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9648-9992>

Contact details: Eötvös Loránd University, Doctoral School of Educational Science, Egyetem square 1-3, Budapest, Hungary Hungary (dorner.helga@ppk.elte.hu)

Mohammad Ghazanfari holds a PhD degree in applied linguistics from Shiraz University, Iran, and is a member of Asia TEFL. He is Associate Professor of applied linguistics at the Ferdowsi University of Mashhad, Iran. He has published articles in the field of applied linguistics (TEFL, translation studies, pragmatics, and discourse analysis) in both Persian and English. He has also published a few Persian translations from English and has been co-author of an English book on ESP.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-6160-7928>

Contact details: Department of English, Faculty of Letters and Humanities, Ferdowsi University of Mashhad, Mashhad, Iran (mghazanfari@um.ac.ir)

Zainab Hadi Knehir holds an MA in Teaching English as a Foreign Language. Currently, she teaches English to adults and young adults to Iraqi language learners. His research interests are language learning strategies and teaching skills.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-3268-1862>

Contact details: Department of English, Faculty of Letters and Humanities, Ferdowsi University of Mashhad, Ferdowsi University Campus, Azadi Sq., Mashhad, Iran (zainabhadiknehir@gmail.com)

Nicola Morea is a PhD candidate at the Faculty of Education of the University of Cambridge, UK. He completed a Masters of Education with Distinction at the University of Cambridge and, before starting a PhD, worked as a secondary school teacher and Head of Department in England. In his doctoral project, he is exploring the construction of pre-service teachers' multilingual identities and beliefs about multilingualism over the course of a teacher education programme. He is also testing the effects of an identity-based intervention on pre-service teachers' multilingual identities, beliefs about multilingualism and teaching practice that could be included in future teacher education courses.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-0623-3078>

Contact details: Faculty of Education, University of Cambridge, 184 Hills Road, Cambridge, CB2 8PQ, UK (nm613@cam.ac.uk)

Anna Parr-Modrzejewska is a graduate of Łódź University, Poland, where she completed her PhD on teaching English to lower primary students in the form of CLIL. She is currently working in the Department of Translation studies and Language Pedagogy in the Institute of English Studies. Apart from English, she has also completed two BA programs, in early years education and Polish philology, and holds an MA degree in pedagogical therapy. Her research interests involve bilingualism, CLIL, cognitive development and early language education. Apart from her academic activity, she is also a teacher trainer for Macmillan Education and an author of EFL coursebooks and other teaching materials, especially for young learners. She has been an in-service teacher since 2001.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1310-3095>

Contact details: Institute of English, Łódź University, ul. Pomorska 171/173, 90-236 Łódź, Poland (anna.parr@uni.lodz.pl)

Emese Schiller is a PhD candidate at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary, attending the Doctoral School of Education. Her dissertation focuses on the topic of one-to-one counselling for autonomous learning. Besides that, she works as a foreign language teacher working with senior language learners.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1875-4842>

Contact details: Eötvös Loránd University, Doctoral School of Educational Science, Egyetem square 1-3, Budapest, Hungary (sche.emese@gmail.com)